WINCHESTER.

MR. PRINTER,

IT is very unpleaſant to be impelled to come forward, or to ſubmit to be injurioufly affected by the unfounded Whiſperings of diſingenuous Minds.

I aſſert that I did with active Promptitude endeavour all in my Power to promote, and I hope with Effect, the Intereſt of LORD JOHN RUSSELL and Mr. JERVOISE, and I defy any Man, the Creatures of a Man, or Malevolence itſelf, to deny that Fact in the Face of the Public.

It is true, I did not think the Syſtem adopted the moſt adviſeable to the Attainment of the Candidates' Wiſhes, and it may be my Misfortune, my Fault I aſſure you it is, if ſo it can be called, that I did not deſcend to Duplicity, Intrigue, or ſuch inſiduous Meaſures, as muſt have been alike offenſive to the Feelings of the Gentlemen for whom I have the Honour to be concerned, and diſgraceful to myſelf.

SIR,

Your obedient Servant,

16th MAY, 1790. WILLIAM FAITHFULL.
